

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

The President's Message and the Stock Market.

DUINNESS AND EXPECTATION

Gold Lower—Money Easy—Government Bonds Steady.

ARE WE TO HAVE SPECIFIC PAYMENTS?

Wall Street, Dec. 8-9 P. M. Truly, at this season of the year, both the stock and gold markets are more or less influenced by the recommendations of the Chief Justice and his officials. The present time, however, appears in this respect to be exceptional, for it is difficult to find a single banker or broker who is disposed to step outside of the beaten track of speculative movements for the purpose of indulging in any fancy based on the reiterated idea of specific payments. When Congress acts on this question and it appears probable that a law may be passed which recognizes the sound views enunciated by the Executive and his Secretary we may expect sharp and definite changes in all classes and values, but until then neither speculation nor commercial enterprise is likely to undergo changes.

THE PRELIMINARY WALL STREET IS NOT generally in favor of prompt specific payments. Operators care more for a good railroad report, especially now that such an event is a rarity, than for a greenback that may be prospectively represented by gold and therefore, so far as the locality is concerned, little interest attaches to the reports from Washington, to which more or less of suspicion attaches that they are meant only to give texture to operations with which Congress or their benches are believed to be most identified. In short, Wall Street is losing faith in Washington, and the laws of trade are winning more adherents than all the propositions of theorists. Every one in America is anxious to reach specific payment, but not every one agrees to the sharp process suggested by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury.
